“ Annemarie was a firecracker but yet a sweet woman. She will be missed. I'm going to miss her giving you(Frank) a hard time although I know she loved you and always had your best interest at heart. She told Barbara she worried about your well-being after she was gone. She loved you. She was a hardworking woman and loved her pets. She always wanted to make sure they were taken care of. I know it's not easy but shes at peace now and in no more pain.

“ I'm here for you brother. Always . Anna is finally at rest and in no more pain. I'll always remember the apartment years way back when we first met in '90. I remember looking through photo albums with you both, flipping through your family history. I was one of the friends that thought your mother was stunning when she was younger, and told her so a few times. She would through me the chain smoking glare before smiling back at me. I ate at her table. I talked with her when she felt comfortable for company. I remember her bathrobe and slippers, puffing away on her cigarette while asking questions or giving advice. Whether you wanted to hear it or not, it was coming. I often sat and just smiled, watching you squirm brother. 🙏
. I remember her long black hair and trendy clothes, when she was still working as a hairstylist. ... I always had a lot of respect for Anna. She was fierce and didn't suffer fools. She liked the friends that respected her and was good to you. She loved her family. She loved you brother. My condolences, love and prayers to you, Jackie, Colewyn, your brother and her twin sister. Reach out whenever you need too. Rest in Peace Anna...
